Classes & Events — the Complete Guide for Staff and Managers

tickets.greyscheese.com — how customers browse, book and pay for classes and ticketed events, and everything in the manager back office: the dashboard, seating rosters, bookings, refunds and comps, reserved tables, accounting, bulk class creation, and customer profiles.

July 2026 · screenshots use sample data

What this site is

The ticket site (tickets.greyscheese.com) sells classes and ticketed events for all three locations — Memphis, Nashville and Franklin. It has a customer storefront, a lightweight "My classes" account for guests, and a password-protected manager back office.

How it connects to everything else. It shares one database with the rest of the GREYS tools: the staff portal calendar automatically shows every class with its live booked/capacity count (never enter ticketed events by hand on the portal), and the table-booking system automatically seats every event booking onto the dining-room table calendar — refunds free the seats. No sales channel can double-book a table.

Payments — currently TEST MODE. The site is wired for gift cards + credit cards through Heartland, but today approvals are simulated: no real money moves, any card number works, and gift cards apply a fake $25 balance. Screens show a TEST MODE badge. Going live is a config flip once Heartland keys arrive (see the "Going live" page at the end).

Confirmation emails are live. Booking confirmations, table-hold receipts and seat receipts send from info@greyscheese.com (via SMTP2GO, with SendGrid as fallback). Receipts go to the purchaser and any guest who typed their own email.

Tip: Everything below uses sample data — names, bookings and revenue in the screenshots are examples.

Part 1 — The customer experience

Staff should know this flow cold — it's what guests see and what they'll call about.

At Greys, we are all about education! We want to see our turophiles (cheese lovers) expand their knowledge of all things cheese. Learn about different styles, flavors, terroir and how to perfectly pair your cheeses. Learn to enjoy cheese with chocolate, wine, bourbon and much more! The possibilities with cheese are endless! We are committed to visiting cheese creameries in the US and around the world and bringing back knowledge to share with our mongers and turophiles. There are endless opportunities for learning when it comes to cheese, and the best part of our job is sharing it with you!

We offer classes in all our locations every week. Make it a date night, Girls Night Out, or just nerd out with us solo at one of our classes. You can also find us at food festivals or collaborating with others like restaurants, breweries and lots more! Can't make it to one of our classes? Want to host a class in your venue? We have options for you. With our new in-home tasting experience you can host your own experience at home or hire one of our cheesemongers for a guided experience at your venue. Contact us at info@greyscheese.com and let us bring the cheese knowledge to your venue.

Corporate & Team Building Workshops

Host a cheese class for your clients or employees! Learning about cheese and charcuterie is actually quite fun! Our expert cheesemongers will bring the knowledge to your events. Whether you have a small group or large corporate event, our cheesemongers will guide you on a cheese tasting. We can teach your group about cheese basics with our cheese 101 experience, learn how to make the perfect cheese and charcuterie board or learn about how to pair cheese with wine, beer and so much more. We can customize your event and work with small or large budgets. Contact us at info@greyscheese.com for more information.

Ticket-stub cards, soonest first.

- 1 The stub shows month, day and time.
- 2 Seat counts turn orange when low — at 20% of capacity or 2 seats.
- 3 Sold out — the card greys out with a FULL button.
- 4 Reserve opens the booking form.

Each card shows price, duration, and how many "upgrades" (add-ons) the class offers. Past classes drop off automatically. Seat counts are live: paid seats plus seats reserved on held tables count against capacity.

1.3 The booking form — section by section

The screenshot shows the booking interface for a class titled "Cheese 101 — Intro to Tasting". The header includes the GREYS logo and navigation links: "BOOK A CLASS", "MY CLASSES", and "MANAGER". Below the header, the class details are displayed: "THURSDAY, JULY 23, 2026 · 6:00 PM · MEMPHIS". The class description reads: "Six cheeses, tasting technique, and how to build a board. Perfect first class." The "01 — TICKETS" section is highlighted. To the right, an "Order summary" table lists the items and prices:

Order summary
2 × General admission	$110
1 × Wine pairing upgrade	$15
Sales tax	$12.19
Processing fee	$8.23

Reserving opens the booking page: class details and date at the top, the numbered form below, and the order summary pinned alongside.

The form is numbered 01 through 06. Here is each section on its own:

01 — Tickets

The "01 — Tickets" section contains a "Number of tickets" label and a price breakdown: "$55 base · 5 seats remaining". To the right of the text is a stepper control with minus and plus buttons and the number "2".

Pick how many tickets. The stepper is capped at the seats remaining, and the line under it shows the base price per seat.

A tabled event's first section, "01 — Your table": buy the whole table in one payment or split-pay starting with one seat; the table dropdown joins a table others started or opens a new one; a held table shows its 48-hour countdown and the share link for the rest of the party to buy their seats.

While a table is held, its open seats are counted against capacity (nobody else can take them) — if the 48-hour window lapses unfilled, the hold releases automatically and the seats return to general sale. Managers can watch and release holds from the back office (Part 2.6).

Tip: Delete removes the class AND clears its bookings — for a class with sales, prefer refunding guests first, and use Edit to fix details. Deleting is best kept for mistakes with no real bookings.

How are tickets sold?

☐ Single tickets

Individual seats sold one at a time. No tables.

☒ Tabled event

Guests sit at named tables (like class groups). A table can be bought whole, or reserved with one seat and shared so others buy the rest.

Seats per table

Each table seats 4. Tables are named automatically and shown with their members' initials, just like class groups.

Upgrades

No upgrades yet — add wine pairings, take-home kits, etc.

The single-item editor (here: a new event).

- 1 Multiple dates — one copy is created per date; the easy way to schedule a repeating class.
- 2 How tickets sell — single tickets, or a tabled event with a seats-per-table size.
- 3 Upgrades — the add-ons guests pick per ticket (wine pairing, take-home kit...).

CSV add-ons use the format Name:Price; Name:Price (e.g. "Charcuterie:15; Take-home kit:20"). Editing an existing class keeps its bookings; changing price only affects new sales.

Going live & quick reference

Payments — flipping Heartland to live

The whole flow already works end-to-end in test mode. To go live (details in HEARTLAND-SETUP.md in the project): get the Heartland eCommerce public key and secret key from your rep with gift/stored-value enabled → deploy the included heartland-charge function and set its URL + the public key in the site config → change the payments mode from "test" to "live" → run a certification transaction, then swap in production keys. Customers see the same flow, minus the TEST badges.

Emails

Confirmations send from info@greyscheese.com (SMTP2GO, SendGrid fallback; domain-authenticated in Wix DNS) and are already in live mode. A test switch exists that routes every email to brad@greyscheese.com instead of guests — useful when trying things.

Access levels

Who	How they get in	What they can do
Anyone	No login	Browse schedules by location, book and pay (test), join groups/tables, view shared booking links
Customers	Email only — no password	"My classes": upcoming bookings, attended history, suggestions
Managers	Manager password (same as the staff-portal console)	Back office: create/edit/delete classes & events, rosters, edit bookings, refunds, comps, holds, accounting + CSV, customers

Good habits

- Add ticketed events here, never on the staff portal — the portal calendar picks them up automatically with booked counts.
- Use Bulk add (or its CSV template) to load a month of classes at once; use multiple dates in the editor for a repeating class.
- Refund before deleting. Deleting a class clears its bookings without refunds.
- Check Reserved tables before an event — release stale holds so the seats sell.
- Names drive seating: when guests call about sitting together, either put them in the same group or fix the spelling of the "sit with" name in the booking editor.
- Export the Accounting CSV monthly for the accountant — it splits tax and processing fees per booking.
- Prices are per seat; tax (9.75%) and the 6% card fee are added at checkout — quote guests the all-in total from the order summary if they ask.
